FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CrimeWeb and Dialogic Communications announce a partnership.

Fort Worth, Texas, October 6, 2004 - Dialogic Communications recently distributed a nationwide press release announcing that it has established a partnership with CrimeWeb.Net. The press release can be viewed online at:

<http://www.dccusa.com/press-room.asp>

Specifically, the partnership involves the design and implementation of an interface between the CrimeWeb Internet alert system and Dialogic phone based alert system. Dialogic, based in Tennessee, is known as the “global leader” in critical communications technology. The company currently has several hundred phone based notification systems installed around the world, including an installation at the White House. Another Dialogic customer is the Collin County (Texas) Sheriff’s Office.

The Collin County SO is also a CrimeWeb user, and will be the first to purchase and install the interface between the two systems. The interface will allow citizens of Collin County to register online to receive CrimeWeb alerts via the Dialogic “Callout-Builder” voice module. During the online registration process, the CrimeWeb software will automatically recognize citizens from Collin County (by zip code) and direct them to a separate registration form. The new registration form will allow them to register to receive voice alerts via their home or mobile phone (in addition to being notified via the Internet.) When an alert is sent, the combined system will relay a separate voice message advising that a new alert has been issued, and referring the citizen to the CrimeWeb site for more details. This will allow citizens to become instantly aware of a new CrimeWeb alert, even if they are away from their computer. The enhanced system will be highly configurable to allow citizens to choose the type of alerts they wish to receive and the manner of notification for each alert type. Citizens will also be able to specify the maximum number of phone calls they wish to receive in a 24-hour period. If your department would be interested in learning more about the interface, please contact CrimeWeb for details. support@crimeweb.net or 888-33CRIME.
